Police offer tips for Halloween safety

Halloween is an exciting, fun-filled time for young people. Unfortunately, it can also result in tragedy. The following safety tips are offered for parents, children, and drivers, which will help make Halloween a safe event for all.

Adults

❑ Welcome trick-or-treaters with your porch lights and any exterior lights on.

❑ Coordinate with your neighbors and patrol your streets occasionally to discourage speeding motorists, acts of malicious mischief and crimes against children.

❑ Set a time limit for your children to "trick-or-treat." An adult should accompany any children under age 8. Trick-or-treating on the installation is scheduled for 6-9 p.m., Oct. 31.

❑ Instruct children not to eat or drink any candy or food until they arrive home and it has been inspected by adults.

❑ Accept only professionally wrapped candy. Discard all candies which are not wrapped or whose wrapping appears to have been opened or punctured. Cut and wash fruit before eating.

❑ Report any suspicious or unusual activity immediately to the police.

Motorists

❑ Exercise extreme caution when driving a vehicle. Be on the alert for excited youngsters who may have their vision restricted by masks.

Trick-or-treaters

❑ Do not accept rides from strangers.

❑ Carry a flashlight and use it when crossing streets.

❑ Cross only at street corners, never between parked cars, and never diagonally across an intersection.

❑ Look in all directions before crossing the street, and obey all traffic lights. Walk – never run – across the street, and use sidewalks, not streets, for walking.

❑ Never trick-or-treat alone. Have at least two "buddies" together for the entire evening.

❑ Do not go inside anyone's home. Remain on the porch at all times.

❑ Do not take short cuts through backyards, alleys, or parks.

❑ Trick-or-treat only in your neighborhood and on well-lit streets. If possible, daylight hours are best.

Costumes

❑ Make sure your child's costume is not flammable. Show your children how to roll on the ground in the event a costume catches fire. In case of fire, do not run, as this makes the fire spread more rapidly.

❑ Your child should have at least one hand free at all times to avoid injury in case of a fall.

❑ Make sure that your child's mask does not restrict vision and has adequate breathing holes. It is preferable to use non-allergenic makeup for the disguise instead of using a mask.

❑ Use reflective tape or retro-reflective material for costumes.

❑ Swords, knives and other such accessories should be of soft or flexible material. (Courtesy of Presidio of Monterey Police Department, Community Services Division)

Commanders support Domestic Family Violence Prevention Month

Army Col. Peter Dausen
Garrison Commander

Hello All,

October is Domestic Family Prevention Month, a critically vital issue for all of us.

I want to share this important message from Colonel Devlin, the Installation Commander, with you. Please take the time to thoroughly read it.

Domestic violence is preventable! Thanks for listening.

The proclamation follows:
Domestic Violence Prevention Month
in the Army: October 1999

Domestic violence prevention is crucial to the Army mission. It is a mandated part of our Family Advocacy Program, and the regulations that govern family advocacy. Each October, we put a special focus on the prevention of domestic violence in the Army, to remind ourselves that this is a year-round mission.

This year, our theme is "Preventing Domestic Violence: It's Everyone's Duty." It is central to the Family Advocacy mission, which strives to achieve the outcomes of "safety, self sufficiency, personnel preparedness, and community cohesion." From the Commander's perspective, family advocacy in behalf of domestic violence prevention is the responsibility of every individual at this installation.

Our command commitment to domestic violence prevention is total. We want to prevent it from occurring in the first place, and we will intervene decisively and effectively when it does occur.

Our twin slogans for this year's campaign spell it out in a dramatic way: "Prevent Domestic Violence: Preserve Domestic Tranquility." This reflects our conviction that prevention is the best strategy. Many of our mobilizations in the 1990's have been driven by humanitarian concerns, and we have worked heroically to restore peace and tranquility in troubled places around the globe. We are motivated to maintain tranquility in our own family lives so we are always ready and able to serve our country whenever we are called.

"Stopping Domestic Violence: It's Not Just a Good Idea – It's The Law." This reflects our commitment to intervene when prevention fails, and to use the full weight of our authority to assure that when domestic violence occurs, we will move decisively to stop it from re-occurring.

Everyone in this community is responsible for assuring the safety of all who live and work here. Self-sufficiency is only possible when all soldiers and families are strong and adaptable – positive assets to our Army. The combination of thorough training and having your home life and every part of your life in order is at the heart of what we mean by personnel preparedness.

Soldiers, commanders, civilians and families – all need to be committed to Army life in order to maintain community cohesion. When domestic violence occurs anywhere in the life of our community, it undermines our community and our mission. In domestic violence prevention, community cohesion is a driving force for us to form partnerships with civilian agencies off post – law enforcement, shelters, advocacy groups, and others.

The bottom line is that "domestic violence prevention begins with me" – and you, and every individual in this community. Our duty and responsibility call on us to succeed in this campaign against domestic violence and in favor of domestic tranquility – it is not just a good idea, it is the law.

To further these ends, I hereby declare October 1999 Domestic Violence Prevention Month at the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and Presidio of Monterey and call on every member of this community to join in the campaign for the balance of this year, and throughout the year 2000.

America Reads program seeks children's book donations

The Monterey County America Reads Consortium is sponsoring its first children's book drive which begins Monday and runs until Nov. 22.

The goal is to collect books to give each child who is tutored through the America Reads project in kindergarten through third grade.

America Reads' focus is on increasing literacy of these young students through one-on-one tutoring. Now, as the U.S. Department of Education and educators throughout the country continue to stress the link between school and home environments, the program is seeking to encourage further reading practice and positive reinforcement by giving children books to take home with them.

Because the program tutors a group of students with diverse backgrounds, it is collecting multi-cultural books, as well as those written in Spanish and other languages prevalent in the county.

Drop off new or used books appropriate for kindergarten through third grade and in good condition at the commissary on the Presidio of Monterey Annex or at the Presidio of Monterey post exchange. Donations will not only help children learn to read, but can also earn one free admission pass to the Steinbeck Center for the donor. For more information about the book drive, to make a financial donation for the purchase of books, or to volunteer as tutor, call the Panetta Institute at 582-4200.

Fiscal 2000 defense bill targets quality-of-life issues

WASHINGTON (AFPN) — President Bill Clinton signed the fiscal 2000 National Defense Authorization Act Oct. 5, clearing the way for the most comprehensive compensation package ever put together for members of the armed forces.

Speaking before a crowd of people gathered outside the Pentagon for the ceremonial signing of the bill, the president commented on its significance.

"In a very real sense today," Clinton said, "the work that Congress did, and the support that I and our administration gave to this legislation, is purely and simply the product of what our men and women in uniform — from the highest rank to the lowest — told us needed to be done, for them, and for America."

Calling it the most comprehensive compensation package in 50 years, Brig. Gen. John Regni, personnel resources director, Air Force deputy chief of staff for personnel, said, "This bill is historic in the compensation gains for our airmen in the areas of retention, health care and quality of life."

Highlights of the bill include:

— The restoration of the pre-1986 military retirement plan. Service members who entered the armed forces on Aug. 1, 1986 or later, and were affected by the Military Retirement Reform Act of 1986 (commonly referred to as Redux), now have a choice. They can either return to a 50 percent of basic pay option with full inflation protection or remain under the MRRA plan (40 percent multiplier and reduced inflation protection). If they elect to stay under MRRA, they will receive a $30,000 bonus at 15 years of service by agreeing to serve a minimum of five additional years on active duty, for a total of 20 years.

— A 4.8 percent across-the-board pay raise, effective Jan. 1. The bill also provides for a one-time reform of the DOD pay table. The change provides targeted pay increases for about 82 percent of enlisted and about 57 percent of officers. It takes effect July 1. These changes eliminate inconsistencies and increase incentives for promotion by providing greater pay increases for advances in rank.

— A provision to require military pay raises from fiscal 2001 through fiscal 2006 to be 0.5 percent above the employment cost index. This will help narrow the gap between military and private sector pay.

— A provision to help military families by adding $225 million to the military housing allowance budget. This will reduce out-of-pocket expenses for members living in high-cost areas.

— Establishment of a Career Enlisted Flyer Incentive Pay Program with a "save pay" provision for those career specialties designated as "career enlisted flyers."

— A "save pay" provision for air battle managers upon their conversion to "rated" status and transition from Hazardous Duty Incentive Pay to Aviation Career Incentive Pay.

— Expanding the Aviation Continuation Pay to aviation officers in grades below O-7 through their 25th year of flying. The provision also extends the $25,000 maximum annual amount of the bonus to all contracts, regardless of length.

— Repeal of the dual-compensation restriction that now allows retired regular officers to receive their military retirement and federal government salaries.

In the health care arena, the bill contains provisions which direct the Defense Department to improve TRICARE claims processing and management, and waive TRICARE deductibles for families of National Guard and Reserve members called to active duty for less than one year.

Other highlights include:

— Establishing TRICARE beneficiary counseling and assistance coordinators.

— Expanding dental benefits for members of the Ready Reserve; and — The study and further reform of the military pharmacy system.

Additionally, the approved bill contains a provision to help junior enlisted members reduce out-of-pocket moving costs. Payment of temporary lodging expenses will now be authorized to enlisted members upon assignment to their first permanent duty station.

Other quality-of-life highlights include:

— Calls for DOD to implement and fund the establishment of an overseas supplemental food program for service members, their families and civilian employees of the armed forces. This is known as the Women, Infant's and Children Program in the continental United States.

— Air Force funding totaling $703.5 million for CONUS and $30.6 million for overseas construction and land acquisition projects; $203.4 million for family housing construction and acquisition, and $129.9 million for improvements to family housing.

— Authorization for service secretaries to pay a $100 monthly allowance to military retirees with service-connected disabilities rated at 70 to 80 percent, $200 per month for retirees rated at 90 percent, and $300 monthly for retirees rated at 100 percent.

"This act is the best compensation package we have seen in decades, not only for our active-duty members, but also for our entire Air Force family," Regni said. "It returns us to the 50 percent at 20 years' retirement system, provides our largest pay raise in 18 years, and for the next six years provides for pay raises above raises in the private sector."

"This puts us well on the road to restoring the compensation and benefits package our airmen deserve," the general said.

"This puts us well on the road to restoring the compensation and benefits package our airmen deserve."

Brig. Gen. John Regni

Army offers ordnance safety program for local schools, organizations

The Army is concerned that youth in the communities around the former Fort Ord might encounter ordnance and explosives on or in the vicinity of the former Army base.

Fort Ord was an Army training center for more than 40 years prior to its closure. During that time, ordnance including rockets and mortars as well as other explosives were used on the base. The areas where ordnance and explosives were used are closed to the public.

The Army is conducting an ongoing program to find and remove explosives in those areas. While this work is being done, it is important that school age children understand the danger of these devices and the importance of staying out of those areas.

The Army Corps of Engineers has developed a one-hour program to explain and demonstrate the hazards of handling ordnance and explosives. It is designed for school age children and can be adjusted for all grades.

The objective of the program is to raise awareness of the dangers of unexploded ordnance and instill a greater sense of caution in children. The program is presented by military ordnance experts in cooperation with local police officers who emphasize the dangers that explosive items present to anyone handling them and what to do if an item is found.

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Board has authorized the Army to offer this program to schools within the district. The Army has provided this presentation to the students of participating elementary and middle schools in the Seaside area since 1997.

Teachers and students of those schools have described the presentation as a valuable in asset in their efforts to protect the youth of the community.

It is the goal of the Army to provide this program to students of all schools in the area of the former Fort Ord. The program is also available for groups or organizations interested in ordnance and explosives safety.

For more information or to review this program, contact Lyle Shurtleff, Fort Ord Environmental Cleanup Program, Community Relations specialist, at 393-9691, fax 393-9188, or e-mail cqc@redshift.com.

Porter Youth Center award winner named

The Porter Youth Center Sportsperson of the Month for September is Jacob Crusinberry.

Jacob is a 7-year old who is currently playing on the Hot Shots, coached by Mike Brannon. Jacob has proven to be a very good all around athlete. He has also participated in the youth basketball and baseball programs at the youth center.

Besides being a good athlete, Jacob has proven that he cares about the other players on his team and on the other teams. On several occasions Jacob has accidentally collided with other kids, which is very common in soccer games. What is uncommon is that Jacob helped the other player up and checked to see if they were OK before he resumed playing the game.

Jacob is a good example to the other players in this league and deserves congratulations, and so do the people who have influenced him and helped him to be a positive role model.

If your ad is dated (09-24), you must contact us before the Wednesday deadline to have it renewed.

Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emh1.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads per household in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (10-22) will continue to run through the Nov. 19 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the Nov. 5 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the Nov. 19 issue is Nov. 10.

Please refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
